Description

The castle from the second half of the 14th century, located in a unique natural location, was one of the best fortified castle buildings in the Czech kingdom. To this day, the remains of a sophisticated fortification system can be seen, which included, among other things, 6 guard gates, 3 roundels, etc.

It offers visitors tree guided tours - the castle palace, western part of the castle (Jurkovičovský circuit) and the chapel of St. Catherine. The basic sightseeing tour includes the entire castle palace from the cellars to the viewing tower. There is an archaeological exhibition with medieval objects, castle models, armoury, exposure of parforce hunts etc. The tour takes place independently (without a guide) and lasts about 45 minutes.

Chapel of St. Catherine was built at the turn of the 15th and 16th centuries. Among others, the interior features present a Baroque altarpiece depicting Saint Catherine, the patron of scholars. The sightseeing is available only with a tour guide and it lasts about 10 minutes.

A tour of the western part of the castle, focused on the construction development of Kunětická hora, with reconstructed lounges by Dušan Jurkovič and a unique view is also now available. It is a guided tour for about 45 minutes and, unlike the previous routes, it is partly barrier-free.

The castle is open seasonally from April to October. A number of cultural and social events take place here during the summer season.

Accessibility

Access to the castle and entrance to the castle premises

- ❖ The castle is situated on the top of Kunětická hill. (307 m above sea level)
- ❖ From the car park, which is located up the hill about 700 m from the castle, leads a maintained asphalt road uphill - climb usually 6%, sometimes 10%, at the end of the climb to the hill (section from the castle well to the castle gate) up to 13%. There is a ban on the entry of motor vehicles and a pillar approximately halfway along the road (a barrier for cars without permitted entry). People with reduced mobility may ask the castle administration for the permission to enter and go with the car up to the entrance gate. The access road is sufficiently wide. Along the way there are resting places for sitting - log benches.

- ❖ The entrance to the castle premises is wheelchair accessible. Entrance gates (there is one entrance, but the remains of several castle gates are behind) are sufficiently wide (a vehicle can pass through them) without thresholds.
- ❖ Access to the cash desk, located in a colorful wooden building next to the kiosk, is from the courtyard after a five-meter climb up the bumpy sandstone pavement.
- ❖ Access to the chapel: stone steps (+25) with railings and stone wall. There are another 5 steps in front of the entrance.
- ❖ Entrance to the castle palace: higher threshold (5 cm). Entrance door is min. 80 cm wide.

Interior premises

- ❖ Most of the corridors in the castle palace are min. 150 cm wide (exceptionally narrowing to 60 cm), doors and the passages are min. 80 cm wide. The surface of the roads is solid and non-slippery - sandstone, toast tiles, concrete.
- ❖ The exhibition is spread over 6 floors (from the basement to the tower), which are accessible only by stairs. Staircases have different parameters; most are equipped with railings. Some stairs are narrow (70 cm) with steep spiral stairs. There are also individual stairs and high thresholds on individual floors (especially on the 2nd floor). At places there is also reduced height in the passage so it should be taken in the account.
- ❖ At the entrance to the exposition on the ground floor (Knight's Hall and exhibition on the development of the torture law) is an elevated threshold and 3 steps. On the ground floor there is a sufficient manipulating area for moving the person in a wheelchair or a pram.
- ❖ In the interior there are seating areas for resting - benches.
- ❖ It is not possible to touch the exhibits, but most of them can be seen from close distance.
- ❖ The descriptions of the exhibits and the information panels are usually well visible and legible both from sitting and standing position and also for the visually impaired (large enough font, simple font, good text and background contrast).

From left: Staircase to higher floors, second floor area, entrance to the north wing of the palace, entrance to Knights 'Hall, exit from Knights' Hall, staircase

- ❖ Newly opened interior spaces in the western part of the castle (Dušan Jurkovič, poet of wood). An elevator platform (outdoor and indoor) is built into the building with the exposition about Dušan Jurkovič and the First Republic rescue of the castle, which takes the visitor to the exhibition spaces. From the building with a barrier-free exhibition, you can also use a wheelchair to reach the sixth gate, namely Jurkovič's Green Lounge (drive-ins available). A wooden staircase with a railing leads to the upper floors of the gate.

Exterior premises

---

- ❖ The outdoor area of the castle outside the main entrance gate (includes a wide range of hills with extensive orchards and roundels with views of the surroundings) is freely accessible.
