Description

The narrow-gauge 20 km railway connecting Třemešná and Osoblaha, where tourist trains are operated with a steam locomotive. The train ride through the picturesque landscape of the Jeseníky Mountains continues for about 80-90 min in one direction. The train runs from Třemešná to Osoblaha and returns once a day on selected days and at weekends from May to September. Exact dates are posted on the website. Visitors can get on and off at any stop on the track (9 in total) and visit attractions that are nearby. The tourist trains include a refreshing beer coach, a coach for the transport of bicycles and prams, and a car with a folding platform for the transport of disabled passengers. The train's capacity is 150 passengers. In addition to regular cruise trains, thematic events are organized. The Osoblaha narrow railway is the oldest narrow-gauge railway in the Czech part of Silesia. Regular public transport started in 1898.

Accessibility

Entrance and Interior premises of the train

- ❖ Platforms at individual stops, as well as access roads to them, have a gravel surface. Only the platform in Třemešná has a surface made of interlocking pavement.
