Description

The Spa park is a public town park in Zdrój between 1. Maja and Witczaka streets. It was founded in the second half of the 19th century and was the key point of the Jastrzębie Sanatorium. Many objects of the sanatorium have been preserved in the park to this day as well as monuments and tourist attractions. Currently, the park has a cultural, educational and entertainment function.

A hiking trail passes through the park. It is an easy walking route with a length of 1.8 km. It is best to start the tour in the middle of the park, where the Szwajcarka Spa House (Switzerland) is located - the first spa building in the park, an Ancient spring drinking hall and an inhalatorium where you can relax and inhale the medicinal brine with a spray fountain. In the park you can also see the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. There is also a historic building of a former children's hospital. Within the boundary of the park there is an outdoor gym, children's play areas or benches for resting near the water. We recommend to finish the route by returning to the main part of the park by the fountain and music pavilion (concert shells).

The spa park boasts a wealth of imported plant species. In an area of about 18 hectares there are over 70 species of trees and shrubs.
